

Highlights for spring/summer 2018

Elizabeth line Bond Street Station tour

Walk the platforms of the Elizabeth line before it opens to commuters travelling to and from one of the busiest shopping districts in London. The line will stretch more than 60 miles from Reading and Heathrow in the west through central tunnels across to Shenfield and Abbey Wood in the east.

Ten places will be available for an exclusive tour of Bond Street Crossrail station platforms, whilst under construction.

Grand opening of Digging Deeper gallery and Crossrail exhibition

You saw it here first, celebrate the opening of the Museum's new permanent Digging Deeper gallery, a dedicated gallery telling the story of tunnelling from Brunel to Crossrail.

Secret life of a Mega Project will open on the same night. The fourth and final exhibition which tells the story of the construction of the Elizabeth Line using striking imagery and footage from the project.

Curator-led tour of Designs on Britain

You will be given an exclusive curator-led tour of the Jewish Museum's major exhibition to find out how Jewish émigré designers from continental Europe profoundly shaped UK Design.

Don't miss iconic posters from London Underground, 70s Raleigh Chopper bike, an early Marble Run toy and the London Transport bus stop sign.

Bombardier: Old Oak Common rail depot

Britain's only train builder, Bombardier, invites you to see the rolling stock for the which is due to open this spring.

Be one of the first to tour the brand new facility which will house 66 new, 200 metre long, trains each able to carry 1,500 people across London and includes a state-of-the-art 9-track train maintenance building.

Private railway collection visit

Spend this summer driving and firing a steam locomotive. This is a rare opportunity to visit a privately-owned railway and spectacular locomotive collection in Berkshire.

The collection includes an 0-4-0 Peckett, 0-4-0 Aveling & Porter and the 'Lady Patricia', a Finnish 5ft gauge Pacific locomotive, which has the distinction of being the largest steam loco operational in the UK.

Inside the Curzon Street station redevelopment

Take an exclusive tour to see inside one of the world's oldest surviving examples of railway architecture. Originally known as Birmingham Station, the Grade I listed Curzon Street Station was once a hub of activity linking Birmingham to London.

HS2 plans to bring life back to the station as the hub linking London and Birmingham as part of a 25-year transformation masterplan for the station and Birmingham city centre.

Test run of 1938 tube stock

Join us on the test run of the revitalised 1938 stock. When it was introduced, the 1938-Stock was the most advanced electric tube train in the world.

Take this exclusive opportunity to ride the train which has undergone substantial and essential repairs before tickets go on sale to the general public.
